Look and Investigate Before You Buy

IF YOU are going to buy a new buggy, you want the most value you can get for your money. Your first idea may be the price of the buggy, with less consideration of the quality of buggy and the manufacturer's reputation.

A cheap buggy, however, usually proves unsatisfactory in the end. It won't wear—the varnish soon loses its lustre and the paint won't last long—and you have an old-looking rig in a short time.

Buy a good buggy, it will look better and last longer than the cheap kind. No matter if the price is a few dollars more, you will get your money's worth in value.

Buy a buggy with a reputation, such as Staver, Sayers & Scoville, Columbus and Peters.

The S. & S. YOUNG MEN'S BUGGY is one for the man who appreciates "QUALITY." Wheels and shafts are made of sound, tough hickory, well ironed; every vehicle is carried four months in paint.

New York, April 19.—How the knots an hour and the officers were striving to live up to the orders to smash the record.

"It was close to midnight," said Moody, "and I was on the bridge with the second officer, who was in command. Suddenly he shouted, 'port your helm.' I did so, but it was too late. We struck the submerged portion of the berg."

Passengers Make Statement.
The following statement, issued by a committee of the surviving passengers, was given the press on the arrival of the Carpathia:

"We, the surviving passengers from the steamship Titanic, in order to forestall any sensational or exaggerated statements, deem it our duty to give to the press a statement of facts which have come to our knowledge, and which we believe to be true.

"On Sunday, April 14, 1912, at about 11:40 p. m., on a cold, starlight night, in a smooth sea, and with a moon, the ship struck an iceberg which had been reported to the bridge by lookouts, but not early enough to avoid collision. Steps were taken to ascertain the damage, and save passengers and ship. Orders were given to put on lifeboats, and the boats were lowered. The ship sank at about 2:30 a. m. Monday, and the usual signals were sent out by wireless and rockets fired at intervals from the ship. Fortunately the wireless message was received by the Cunard steamship Carpathia at about 12 o'clock midnight, and she arrived on the scene of the disaster at about 4 a. m. Monday.

"The officers and crew of the steamship Carpathia had been preparing all night for the rescue and comfort of the survivors, and the last mentioned were received on board with the most touching care and kindness, every attention being given to all irrespective of class. The passengers, officers and crew gave up gladly their staterooms, clothing and comforts for our benefit.

"Fourteen large lifeboats, two smaller boats and four collapsible boats were carried and apparently life preservers in sufficient number for all on board.
"The approximate number of passengers was 745.

Not only was the Titanic tearing through the night to her doom with every ounce of steam crowded on, but she was under orders from the general officers of the line to make all the speed of which she was capable. This was the statement made tonight by J. H. Moody, a quartermaster of the vessel and helmsman on the night of the disaster. He said the ship was making twenty-one

GERM SCARE

Lays Hold of The Public Drinking Cup.Unless the train "butchers" keep on hand a supply of cups to sell to passengers, the traveling public will hereafter be thirsty in sight of a cooler full of ice water.The recently enacted state law prohibiting the common drinking cup in Kentucky will go into effect in Kentucky about May 10. Discussing this law the Courier-Journal says:"The law forbids the use of common drinking cups on railroad trains and in railroad stations, hotels, boarding houses, restaurants, steamboat stores "or other publicly frequented places." No person or corporation in charge of such places shall permit the use of the drinking cup in common, and warning placards must be posted in conspicuous positions. A violation of the provisions of the act is punishable by a fine of not less than $1 and more than $10, and each day's violation of any of the provisions of the act is to be considered a separate offense.The public drinking cup is now recognized as a menacing medium for the transmission of disease. Legislation has been directed against it in various cities and in a number of the states in the union. Kentucky in adopting this commendable law has taken a forward step in the campaign for the prevention of disease.
On general principles the common drinking cup had nothing to recommend or justify it. Now that it is known to be an agency for the dissemination of many deadly, dangerous or loathsome maladies, there is no longer any shadow of excuse for its continuance in public place. The effective enforcement of the Kentucky act will be a substantial gain for decency and sanitation."

OLD HOMES ARE GOING FAST

"Before the War" Mansions of the South, With Their Romanesque
Are Disappearing.The grand old "before the war" homes, situated in romance and dear to the heart of the children of the old south, are fast going. In a grave of oaks, the big homes with the impossible columns, ample verandas and the air of hospitality and cheer, there will be no more. Some of these old homes have fallen into ruin, and the surviving ones are relics of an age that is past.For several years there has been a movement in the south for smaller farms. This movement has been constantly accelerated. And it means much for the welfare of this section.
The old plantations were manageable only when labor could be relied upon —and when one person was willing to pass his life in the employment of another.The south is becoming more utilitarian. Descendants of those cavaliers who charged with Rupert and melted their plate to support the tottering throne of an unworthy Stuart have scanned their lessons well. Life is activity, hurry and turmoil. It still would be an idyllic existence forever to loiter in the shade and yell to Pompey for another julep—but it is no longer practicable.This month will see two of the fine old plantation homes of Harbour county go under the hammer. Historic Roseland and the splendid Pugh estate alike are to be sold. Some of these days when the south gets enormously wealthy again the grand old times may be revived.—Birmingham

STRANGE CRATER IN ARIZONA

Geologists Have Offered Several Theories to Account for This Singular Phenomenon.About forty miles from Flagstaff, Ariz., in the midst of a great plain, there is a saucer-shaped hollow about three-quarters of a mile across and 600 feet deep. The rim of this strange crater rises between 150 and 200 feet above the surrounding plain. Rocky fragments are scattered for several miles around the crater. Among these rocks many fragments of meteoric iron, some containing minute black diamonds, have been found. The inner walls show that the crust of the earth was broken when the crater was formed; yet no volcanic rocks exist there. Geologists have offered several theories to account for this singular phenomenon. One is that an immense meteorite made the hole, and that the meteoric fragments just mentioned are remnants of the falling star. Another theory ascribes the origin of the crater to a tremendous explosion of steam in the rocks beneath, and a third combines the first two by suggesting that the blow of a falling meteor, striking the earth's crust at a point where subterranean water had accumulated in the neighborhood of heated rocks, was the cause of the explosion.

First Woman on English Stage.

January 3 is an important anniversary in the development of the British drama, for upon this date in 1661 Peppys went to the Clare Market theater, saw the "Beggars Bush" well performed and records, "the first time that I ever saw women come upon the stage."Previously all female parts had been taken by boys or young men. The change was probably suggested by Charles II. from his continental experience, and arose from an amusing episode. The king had gone to the theater "before his time," and finding the actors not ready, asked for an explanation, whereupon he was gravely informed that "the queen has not shaved yet!" As the Merry Monarch loved to laugh at a jest as well as to make one, the excuse was accepted and a reform initiated.

Mourn Saleswoman's Death.

There is mourning in one of the large department stores because of the death of a saleswoman who was probably as well known in New York as any one of the great sisterhood.
"Little Ellen," as every one called her because she always retained the name by which she was known when she became an employee of the house thirty-five years ago, was for many years at the head of the glove selling department and had customers by the hundred, who would be served only by her. She knew the sizes of gloves they wore and had many friends among her patrons, for whom she selected gloves when they were small children. At holiday times she was always liberally remembered by them, and her death is regretted as much by them as by her associates and employers.

Sword 3,400 Years Old.

Among several relics of ancient times, including temple reliefs from Abydos and a mummy from Meir, dated about 100 A. D., J. Pierpont Morgan has given the Metropolitan Museum of Art an Assyrian sword, believed to be 3,400 years old. It was found by Colonel Hanbury, an English explorer, about 1875 at Nardin and is said to be the earliest example known.Frederick Remington's large painting, "A Cavalry Charge on the Southern Plains," has been presented to the

An Arithmetical Trick.

By knowing the last figure of the product of any two numbers, to tell the other figures. If the number 73 be multiplied by each of the numbers in the following arithmetical progression, 3, 6, 9, 12, 15, 18, 21, 24, 27, the products will terminate with the nine digits in this order, 9, 8, 7, 6, 5, 4, 3, 2, 1, the numbers themselves being as follows: 210, 420, 630, 840, 1050, 1260, 1470, 1680, 1890, 2100, 2310, 2520, 2730, 2940, 3150, 3360, 3570, 3780, 3990, 4200, 4410, 4620, 4830, 5040, 5250, 5460, 5670, 5880, 6090, 6300, 6510, 6720, 6930, 7140, 7350, 7560, 7770, 7980, 8190, 8400, 8610, 8820, 9030, 9240, 9450, 9660, 9870, 10080, 10290, 10500, 10710, 10920, 11130, 11340, 11550, 11760, 11970, 12180, 12390, 12600, 12810, 13020, 13230, 13440, 13650, 13860, 14070, 14280, 14490, 14700, 14910, 15120, 15330, 15540, 15750, 15960, 16170, 16380, 16590, 16800, 17010, 17220, 17430, 17640, 17850, 18060, 18270, 18480, 18690, 18900, 19110, 19320, 19530, 19740, 19950, 20160, 20370, 20580, 20790, 21000, 21210, 21420, 21630, 21840, 22050, 22260, 22470, 22680, 22890, 23100, 23310, 23520, 23730, 23940, 24150, 24360, 24570, 24780, 24990, 25200, 25410, 25620, 25830, 26040, 26250, 26460, 26670, 26880, 27090, 27300, 27510, 27720, 27930, 28140, 28350, 28560, 28770, 28980, 29190, 29400, 29610, 29820, 30030, 30240, 30450, 30660, 30870, 31080, 31290, 31500, 31710, 31920, 32130, 32340, 32550, 32760, 32970, 33180, 33390, 33600, 33810, 34020, 34230, 34440, 34650, 34860, 35070, 35280, 35490, 35700, 35910, 36120, 36330, 36540, 36750, 36960, 37170, 37380, 37590, 37800, 38010, 38220, 38430, 38640, 38850, 39060, 39270, 39480, 39690, 39900, 40110, 40320, 40530, 40740, 40950, 41160, 41370, 41580, 41790, 42000, 42210, 42420, 42630, 42840, 43050, 43260, 43470, 43680, 43890, 44100, 44310, 44520, 44730, 44940, 45150, 45360, 45570, 45780, 45990, 46200, 46410, 46620, 46830, 47040, 47250, 47460, 47670, 47880, 48090, 48300, 48510, 48720, 48930, 49140, 49350, 49560, 49770, 49980, 50190, 50400, 50610, 50820, 51030, 51240, 51450, 51660, 51870, 52080, 52290, 52500, 52710, 52920, 53130, 53340, 53550, 53760, 53970, 54180, 54390, 54600, 54810, 55020, 55230, 55440, 55650, 55860, 56070, 56280, 56490, 56700, 56910, 57120, 57330, 57540, 57750, 57960, 58170, 58380, 58590, 58800, 59010, 59220, 59430, 59640, 59850, 60060, 60270, 60480, 60690, 60900, 61110, 61320, 61530, 61740, 61950, 62160, 62370, 62580, 62790, 63000, 63210, 63420, 63630, 63840, 64050, 64260, 64470, 64680, 64890, 65100, 65310, 65520, 65730, 65940, 66150, 66360, 66570, 66780, 66990, 67200, 67410, 67620, 67830, 68040, 68250, 68460, 68670, 68880, 69090, 69300, 69510, 69720, 69930, 70140, 70350, 70560, 70770, 70980, 71190, 71400, 71610, 71820, 72030, 72240, 72450, 72660, 72870, 73080, 73290, 73500, 73710, 73920, 74130, 74340, 74550, 74760, 74970, 75180, 75390, 75600, 75810, 76020, 76230, 76440, 76650, 76860, 77070, 77280, 77490, 77700, 77910, 78120, 78330, 78540, 78750, 78960, 79170, 79380, 79590, 79800, 80010, 80220, 80430, 80640, 80850, 81060, 81270, 81480, 81690, 81900, 82110, 82320, 82530, 82740, 82950, 83160, 83370, 83580, 83790, 84000, 84210, 84420, 84630, 84840, 85050, 85260, 85470, 85680, 85890, 86100, 86310, 86520, 86730, 86940, 87150, 87360, 87570, 87780, 87990, 88200, 88410, 88620, 88830, 89040, 89250, 89460, 89670, 89880, 90090, 90300, 90510, 90720, 90930, 91140, 91350, 91560, 91770, 91980, 92190, 92400, 92610, 92820, 93030, 93240, 93450, 93660, 93870, 94080, 94290, 94500, 94710, 94920, 95130, 95340, 95550, 95760, 95970, 96180, 96390, 96600, 96810, 97020, 97230, 97440, 97650, 97860, 98070, 98280, 98490, 98700, 98910, 99120, 99330, 99540, 99750, 100000.

Japanese Fan Fight.
Divide the players into two sides. Each side must have a den. The dens may be made by curving over a large sheet of cardboard at each end of the room. Under this roof is the den. Stretch a tape across the middle of the room and on it place one feather for every two people. Have feathers of different colors so the pair of opponents may know which ones they are fighting for. Give each player a small Japanese fan and call "Make ready." The two sides now face one another on either side of the tape, two opposing players being opposite each feather. At a given signal the fight begins. The object is to waft the feathers into their opponents' dens. When a feather is blown into a den he who loses it pays a forfeit, and he and his conqueror are then only lookers-on until the end. Denkeepers are appointed and have a lively time keeping the dens from being invaded. If Japanese fans and feathers are not available pieces of colored tissue paper may be substituted for feathers and folded newspapers for fans.

Ship's Cargo.
A game played by any number of persons, some of whom should not have played it before. Each player is asked what his ship is laden with and must mention an article beginning with the first letter of either of his names. Thus, if his name is John Smith, he may say, for instance, jews, sun, fish, sourkrout or jackknives. Those who have not played before are not told of this condition and whenever they mention something beginning with the wrong letter are told that the ship cannot enter port with such a cargo. They are usually much puzzled by observing that a cargo proper for one person is not allowable for another.

This game is played under several different names. In one form each is asked, "What will you take to the picnic?" and if the answer does not begin with the proper letter the player is told that he will not be allowed to go.

Cap Tag.
This game is doubtless an evolution of the old trick which boys have of taking a cap from the head of some youngster and throwing it from one to another, thus preventing the owner from recovering it. The game of "cap tag" is practically the same scheme, with a couple of rules to govern it.

One boy is chosen to be "it," and a cap held in the hand of another boy designates the one whom he is expected to chase and tag. If the boy who has the cap in hand is in danger of being tagged he may pass it to some other boy, who then becomes the one to be chased. When a boy is tagged with the cap in hand he becomes "it," or if he drops it on the ground he is "it" all the same.

A Literary Game.
The names of the well known authors of all countries that can be readily thought of are written on slips of paper and put in a hat or basket. Each player draws a name, reads it aloud and must instantly mention the title of one of that author's works. If she or he hesitates any other player who can remember a title may call it out. The puzzled must give a counter to the one who spoke first. At the end of the game the one with the most counters is the winner.

From Brown to Green.
When all the brown is turning green
The baby buds and leaves are seen.
They push their heads out one by one
And nod and smile to greet the sun.
When all the brown is turning green
The little birds their feathers preen.
They love the coming of the spring,
And so they build and nest and sing.
When all the brown is turning green
Over the brook the bushes lean
And dip their fingers in the tide
And scatter drops on every side.
A little child may love them all—
The buds, the brook, the birds that call—
And watch the spring come softly down
To change to green the earth so brown.
And so I like to romp and play
On such a warm and sunny day.
I feel as happy as a queen
When all the brown is turning green.

OFFER SHEEP IN SACRIFICE

Animals Killed at Steps of Palace in Constantinople on Feast of Balam.

The idea of animal sacrifice seems strange in modern Europe. But it must not be forgotten that Constantinople is Turkish, in spite of the numerous desires on the part of other nations to possess it—or rather because those are so numerous.

The new regime in Turkey is up to date in many things. It is establishing schools, planning railroads and hoping to take its place by right, and not by suzerainty, among the nations of the world. But the favor of the devout Mussulman is sought by strict observance of religious festivals.

The second feast of Balam is the occasion of sacrifice. Its date is variable, since the Turkish year is lunar, and not solar. Last year came in December and it lasts four days.

In anticipation of this festival, droves of fat sheep were taken to the city from Roumelia and Asia Minor. The price varied from $4 to $5. In all the rich and even well-to-do houses these sheep were sacrificed, and the flesh in most cases given to the poor.

Naturally the most elaborate ceremony was at the royal palace of Dolma Bagtche. The sheep, picked for their whiteness and plumpness, were solemnly led to the palace. At the hour fixed the sultan, surrounded by his staff, descended the steps and read a prayer, while the first of the victims was led to the marble step that became the sacrificial altar.

The sultan made the motions of killing the sheep, but actually handed the knife to an officer, who waited until the sultan had withdrawn before completing the sacrifice.

In the last three years the custom has grown up that the skins and wool of all the sheep killed in Turkey that day belong to the sailors.

One of the old rites of Balam was to consign all Christians to massacre. This is now omitted in Constantinople. But it can be imagined that in the oasis of Tripoli this part of the ceremonies is carried out with emphasis.

USING X-RAY ON PRINCESS

Suspensions of British Museum's Officials Regarding Egyptian Mummy Are Allayed.

A distinguished scientist attached to one of the government bureaus at Washington suggests that there may be such a thing as using the X-rays too much and too often, especially, he contends, when the rays are made the medium to pry into the antecedents of a young woman of royal lineage, resting for the moment under unjust suspicions.

Every one knows that spurious mummies have been plumed off upon the public. Recently a doubt arose in a London museum as to the validity of one daughter of the Pharaohs in the collection. It occurred to the museum officials that, in view of the general hollowness of life, the young woman in question might have been manufactured in some up-to-date town. So the officials at once turned the Roentgen rays upon her, with the result that they immediately perceived through her many-folded wraps the amulets which the Egyptians placed upon the bosoms of their dead. So the suspicions of the museum officials were allayed. One of them remarked: "It does seem a little hard that after the lapse of several thousands of years a lady should be suspected of imposture."

An Early Insurance Scheme.

A very early scheme of insurance for the laborer took heed of the woman worker. In 1786 the leapfrog of the poor rates gave birth to the proposal of a "Universal Benefit Society." Mr. Hackwood summarizes the scheme in his "Good Old Times": "Every laborer between the ages of twenty and thirty years," he notes, "earning 10d a day should contribute to a national fund 2d a week, and every woman earning £3 a year 1 1/4d weekly, and when sick or disabled should receive benefit at the rate of 4s a week, with a week added for each child. There were, of course, many other details, but the chief interest lies in the fact that this was perhaps the earliest proposal for the national insurance of the laborer against invalidity."

Will Try to Outlive All Others.

The oldest member of Parliament in the world, the Hungarian deputy, M. Joseph Madarasz, who is now in his ninety-ninth year, issues a denial of the statement that he is about to retire into private life. M. Madarasz says that he means to retain his mandate till he has completed his one hundredth year, if not longer. He carries a list of all the centenarians in the world constantly with him, and marks them off as they die. He is determined to outlive them all, and some day to have the distinction of being the oldest man in the world.

One Excuse for Chewing Gum.

After all the sarcastic comments on the chewing-gum habit, it is interesting to note, in the recent issue of "American Medicine," a good word in its favor. Dr. La Grand Kerr writes that one of the most trying problems in infectious diseases of children is to keep the mouth clean, and that many of the secondary infections which occur as a result of infectious diseases in childhood occur because the mouth has not been kept clean. The use of gum is the best relief, because attractive to a child.

RIGHT CHILDHOOD IS MODEST

Well-Bred Youngster Does Not Think That It Knows Everything, Says Ruskin.

The first character of right childhood is that it is modest. A well-bred child does not think it can teach its parents, or that it knows everything. It may think its father and mother know everything—perhaps that all grown-up people know everything; very certainly it is sure that it does not. And it is always asking questions, and wanting to know more. Well, that is the first character of a good and wise man at his work. To know that he knows very little; to perceive that there are many above him wiser than he, and to be always asking questions, wanting to learn, not to teach. No one ever teaches well who wants to teach, or governs well who wants to govern; it is an old saying (Plato's, but I know not if his, first), and as wise as old.

Then, the second character of right childhood is to be faithful. Perceiving that its father knows best what is good for it, and having found always, when it has tried its own way against his, that he was right and it was wrong, a noble child trusts him at last wholly, gives him its hand, and will walk blindfold with him, if he bids it. And that is the true character of all good men also, as obedient workers, or soldiers under captains.—Ruskin.

THINK TOO MUCH OF MONEY

Many Persons Lose Chance of Happy Marriage by Exaggerating the Value of Wealth.

Scores of people lose their chances of being happily married through making an unnecessary obstacle of money. The importance of it is often exaggerated. Many a man hesitates to propose to a girl because of his small income. Very often much misery, misunderstanding, and tangled lives result from the silence. More unfortunate love affairs are the result of what has not been said than of spoken words.

When a man has a small, sure income, and a prospect of increase, there is no legitimate reason for his not speaking of his love; no reason, for that matter, to prevent marriage. People are so desperately afraid, though, of beginning married life in a small way. They fear the sacrifices which they will be called upon to make—of the criticism to which they will be subjected. Many years of happiness are lost in this way. It is such a mistake for young people to want to start marriage in the state that their parents are ending it.

To delay marriage until a "comfortable" income is available is to prove something lacking in the love.—Answers.

Better Keep the Boy.

At nightfall the junior partner's exultation of the day changed to chagrin and he clamored noisily for the errand boy's dismissal.

"Better think it over," the senior partner advised.

"Why waste time in thinking," the junior retorted, "when he's got to go? Here I am, lying awake every night for a week planning an effective window decoration, which is turned into a laughing stock the first day by the stupidity of that boy, who leaves three yards of blue woolen dust rag draped around silver tankards and trays of diamonds."

"Well," said the elder jeweler, "people stopped and looked, didn't they?"

"Yes, but what of it? That dust rag?" growled the junior.

"That's why I advise you to keep the boy," advised the senior mildly. "If it hadn't been for him I am afraid nobody would have looked at all."

In Praise of Courage.

Certain virtues are divided from vices by so narrow a line that we must discern very clearly to see the difference. Few men can distinguish pride from vanity; perseverance from stubbornness; economy from avarice. The same is true of courage as distinguished from effrontery. The courageous man must have ambition, not merely dream of what he would like to have. The audacious have been found fault with for their brutality in overcoming all obstacles—but force is necessary to accomplish any real purpose.—Chicago American.

Two Pickers on One Line.

A humble and honest fisherman who set his traps for pickerel on a Maine pond the other day is ready to make affidavit as follows: "I hereby declare on oath that I did catch two pickerel on one hook. The first pickerel swallowed the bait and didn't like it. Apparently he tried to cough it up. At any rate he spewed the hook out under his gills and it floated off in the water to be grabbed by a second pickerel. Thus there came up two pickerel, all strung on a line.—Lewiston Journal.

Part Played by Heredity.

Heredity plays an important part not only in tuberculosis and cancerous affection, but likewise in diabetes, rheumatism, gout and many other diseases. We do not inherit tuberculosis, but we do inherit a lessened vitality, or a tendency to contract tuberculosis infection. Underweights are usually people who have inherited such a lessened vitality, and they run the further risk of infection from their underweight brothers or sisters who are apt to be infected.

"MINISTREL" GIRLS.

The senior class of Bethel Female College gave their minstrel at the Lyric Theatre Monday evening. The performance was considered by many of those present as rather unchaste for young ladies. The costumes were immodest and many of the songs and jokes were suggestive of vulgarity. A cultured audience naturally expected a more elevating performance from pupils of a reputable girls' college.—Pembroke Journal.

The above article, supposed to have been written by C. R. Hancock, is a vile and apparently malicious attack upon a performance by young ladies representing some of the leading families of Christian and Trigg counties. The same performance was given here and met with popular approval. The Kentuckian has received reports from many of the best people of Pembroke that the show was received there with nothing but praise. No word of adverse criticism has come from any reputable source and the good people of Pembroke, are ashamed of Hancock's libelous abuse. Some have telephoned asking that his reflections on the chastity and modesty of ladies be denounced as a disgrace to Kentucky manhood and a source of community that harbors him, and condemn his false and malignant publication.

$100 Reward, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. YOUNG WIFE SAVED FROM HOSPITAL

Tells How Sick She Was And What Saved Her From An Operation.

Upper Sandusky, Ohio.—"Three years ago I was married and went to housekeeping. I was not feeling well and could hardly drag myself along. I had such tired feelings, my back ached, my sides ached, I had bladder trouble awfully bad, and I could not sleep. I had headaches, too, and became almost a nervous wreck. My doctor told me to go to a hospital. I did not like that idea very well, so, when I saw your advertisement in a paper, I wrote to you for advice, and have done as you told me. I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills, and now I have my health.

"If sick and ailing women would only know enough to take your medicine, they would get relief."—Mrs. BENJ. H. STANBURY, Route 6, Box 18, Upper Sandusky, Ohio.

If you have mysterious pains, irregularity, backache, extreme nervousness, inflammation, ulceration or displacement, don't wait too long, but try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound now.

"First class, 210; second class, 125; third class 200; officers, 4; seamen, 39; stewards, 96; firemen, 71; the total, 210 of the crew. The total, about 745 saved, was about 80 per cent of the maximum capacity of the lifeboats.

The boat deck was about 75 feet above water, and consequently the passengers were required to embark before lowering boats, thus endangering the operation and preventing the taking on of the maximum number the boats would hold.

WOMAN RESCUED

From Career of Sin By "Hodges Rescue Mission" This Week.

A young woman who has been an inmate of a resort kept by "Big Emma," near this city, for two years or more, known as Edna Parsons, was induced to change her manner of living, on last Monday under the ministrations of Mr. and Mrs. Hodges, of the "Hodges Rescue Mission." She met them at a prayer-service and made a profession of religion and did not return to her former quarters until Thursday, when she went accompanied by an officer to get her few belongings. She said a claim was made that she owed $2 00 on board and she asked that an officer go with her to avoid trouble. The woman's real name is said to be Edna Smith and her home is in Bowling Green. She is about 19 years old and is the divorced wife of a man named Johns and has one small child in the custody of the father. She left for Bowling Green Thursday night declaring that she had quitted her career of sin forever and intended to seek admission into the Baptist Church. Mr. and Mrs. Hodges, who cared for her from Monday until Thursday, express great confidence in the genuineness of her reformation and the sincerity of her purpose.

She will be recalled as the same woman who escaped from the burning car on the T. C. Railroad at the time another woman was alleged to have been burned to death. She was pulled through a window after the car had rolled down an embankment and the inside was filled with flames. Her escape, it is said, made a profound impression on her and she has been dissatisfied with her sinful life ever since that accident.

SIX DAYS OF FUN

Carnival Opens Monday Next
For Week's Engagement.

Everything is in readiness for the beginning of the Spring Festival at Mercer Park Monday. The Barkoot shows are expected to arrive tomorrow afternoon on their own special train of eighteen cars. This organization carries over 200 people.

The feature show is said to be the "Circus Royal," which has as its strongest attraction, Oscar V. Babcock, who rides the death trap loop and flume, on a bicycle. The three sensational Guthries, flying trapeze artists, Mons. Lorenzo, tight wire artists, Hour & Drake, human marionettes, Gallagher trio, Roman ladder feats, "Trick" Brown, sensational ballancing act, and "Patsy" Reis the funny clown and burlesquer.

The "Old Plantation Minstrels," present a show of unusual merit, depicting life in the South before the War.

The Jesse James Wild West portrays faithfully actual events in the historical days of the West.

"Egyptian Hall" features the Aeroplane Girl, an attraction which will become the town talk.

"Princess Susanne," the doll lady, the smallest perfectly formed woman in the world, in songs, dances etc.

"Wonder City," a city in miniature.

Johnny Webb Show, with a display of human curiosities, Equine and Bovine Wonders, a collection of curiosities from the animal kingdom.

"Betty, the Alligator Girl," the wonderful freak, known from ocean to ocean.

EWING-WOODRUFF

Nashville Man and Hopkins County Girl Married Here.

On Tuesday Robert T. Ewing, of Nashville, secured a license here to wed Miss Dolly Woodruff, daughter of Mr. O. C. Woodruff, of St. Charles, Hopkins county, and the marriage was solemnized Thursday morning by Rev. C. M. Thompson. The young lady, accompanied by Miss Lovie Ransom, of Daniel Boone, Miss Verna Galloway, of St. Charles, and Mr. H. C. Harlan, of Louisville, arrived here over the I. C., and were met at the depot by Mr. Ewing and the party were driven to the residence of Dr. Thompson, where the ceremony was performed. Mr. and Mrs. Ewing went to Nashville in the evening, where they will make their home.

The groom holds a position with the L. & N. railroad.

Miss Mary Ann Garrott.

Miss Mary A. Garrott died Wednesday about 6 p. m., near Longview, after an invalidism of several years. She was about ninety years old and a member of one of South Christian's most prominent families. She had been a member of the Baptist Church for a number of years and was much esteemed by everyone who knew her. The interment took place in the family burying ground at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Sudden Death of Child.

Myrtle, the six months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. H. Harrell, died suddenly at the home of its parents on Bentley street Wednesday night. The child had been ill of whooping cough and during a fit of coughing became strangled, death resulting in a short while.

Mike Donlin Will Add Strength to the Pirates.

According to Manager Fred Clarke, the addition of Mike Donlin to the Pittsburgh Pirates gives the team an excellent chance to win the pennant. He believes the former member of the New York and Boston teams will inject the true fighting spirit into his teammates and that his batting will be a big aid to the Pirates. Donlin is now in good shape and says he expects to have a good season.

Runner Tawaniima in Training.

Louis Tawaniima, the famous long distance Indian runner, who is a student at the Carlisle Indian school, has started on a course of training for the Olympic games at Stockholm under the direction of Physical Director Glenn S. Warner.

Tawaniima, according to the statement made by Warner, will not be allowed to run in any of the spring events this year. It is realized that the Indian is one of the greatest long distance runners in the world, and his course of training will be especially rigid and exacting.

Bonhag May Not Compete.

George Bonhag, distance runner, and Frederick Thomson, all round champion, may not compete in two of the chief events in the Olympic games at Stockholm next summer because they are scheduled for Sundays. Both athletes have religious scruples against Sunday games, and it is said that Bonhag may decide not to contest in the 10,000 meter run, scheduled for Sunday, July 7, while Thomson may not take part in the pentathlon on the same date and five events on the decathlon on Sunday, July 14.

Carpentier Coming to America.

McGoorty, Klaus, Dillon and the rest of them in their struggle to seize the middleweight crown may have a new competitor to contend with. Georges Carpentier, the French middleweight, who defeated Jim Sullivan, the English champion, recently has stated that he intends to make a trip to this country for the purpose of disputing the honors with our leading middleweights. Just now Carpentier is in such great demand in Europe that he has not been able to fix a definite date for his contemplated trip to America.

All Nation Ball Club.

An all nation baseball club is being organized by a Chicago baseball manager, and he expects to have a team that will become a big drawing card. John More is getting up the novel aggregation and is seeking the services of four more good players—namely, an Indian, a Chinese, a Japanese and a negro—who are well acquainted with the national game. Of course there will be an Irishman, German, Frenchman and Swede on the team as well.

Hilton to Bring Golfers.

Although the United States Golf association has not yet received definite news as to the makeup of the team which Champion H. H. Hilton will bring with him when he comes to America to defend his golf title, the impression prevails that most of his lieutenants will be representatives of the older school. Hilton, John Ball and J. L. Low are all past forty years of age. Low was here before as captain of the Oxford-Cambridge team.

Eastern Harness Racing.

Thanks to the foresight of the managers, the ultimate success of the eastern division of the grand circuit appears to be assured, and the prospects are that the five big harness meetings—Fort Erie, Readville, Salem, Hartford and Syracuse—will make a much better record than some others where the track owners and managers enjoy the extra privilege of open meetings.

Cornell Has Interesting Athletic Slides.

Coach Jack Mackley of the Cornell university track and field as well as cross country teams has a large and interesting collection of lantern slide illustrations of the record holders in various events.

A SAILOR'S KNOT

By EDWARD N. WENTWORTH

The president of the bank sent for me and said:

"Mr. Hemingway, we must send $20,000 to the Third National bank of Coperton and get it there before 3 o'clock. I wish you and Williams to take it, dividing the amount between you. You will go by an automobile, for which I have sent, to be here in ten minutes from Anderson's garage. You and Williams will, of course, go armed, but I don't think there is any danger since I see no reason why any one should know that you carry money."

It was very well for the president to say that no one would know we carried money, but the bank was continually sending out funds, and Williams and I were known as the bank's messengers. We didn't know who of the force employed in the bank might be dishonest and knowing when funds were taken to other places would supply information to crooks that would cause a robbery.

I had carried funds so often without getting into trouble that it seemed to me the pitcher that goes often to the well is at last broken.

However, Williams and I started, each with $10,000 on our persons. Our chauffeur we had had often before and had every confidence in him. We rolled out of town and onto the road to Coperton, some twenty-five miles distant.

Some ten miles of the distance had been done, when, coming to a sharp bend in the road, our driver slowed up to make the turn and a man jumped onto the footboard on each side, each man holding a cocked revolver at our heads. A third man covered the driver and ordered him to stop.

Of course we had no time to draw and defend ourselves, and the chauffeur was unarmed. The first thing the robbers, who were masked, did was to take away our revolvers and the next to go through us and relieve us of the bills. Then they took us into a thick wood beside the road and, whipping out a strong cord, proceeded to bind us so thoroughly that we could not move hand or foot. Then they put gags in our mouths and left the three of us to get out of the scrape as best we could.

Now, I had been to sea from eighteen to twenty on a sailing vessel and knew something about the calling of a sailor. There was one circumstance and only one that told me the man who tied me had been a seaman. When he bound me he tied the cord in a knot that every sailor uses continually and no one but a sailor would think of using. Fortunately for me, I couldn't talk for the gag in my mouth or I should have called the attention of the others to the fact. As it was, I soon bethought myself that a large reward would be paid by the bank for the discovery of the robbers and with the clue I possessed I might more easily win the reward myself. So I determined to keep my counsel and as soon as we were released to hunt for a sailor or one who had been a sailor who was spending money freely.

The chauffeur, who had some false teeth in his head, by dint of working his jaws contrived to loosen them, which loosened his gag also, and he soon got both teeth and gag out of his way. So when we heard the sound of wheels passing on the road he set up a shout, which brought a man into the wood. The chauffeur told him our story, and, taking his knife, he cut the cords that bound us. This enabled me to preserve the knot that was used in my case, and I stuffed it into my pocket for evidence.

I confess I didn't feel any especial tenderness for the president of the bank, who I thought should have found better ways of sending money about than the one adopted. I not only had the obloquy of having been robbed, of having some suspicious cast upon me of being in league with the robbers, but I had run a risk of being murdered. Therefore I resolved on an effort to get something out of the occurrence.

I wrote or telephoned the police of the neighboring towns to look out for any one of a sailor cut who was spending money. I was soon notified of a man who was ashore temporarily, who had got a $100 bill changed. I slipped away to the town where the fellow was, darkened my complexion, met him in a saloon, pretended to be drunk and asked him to drink with me. We had not been long together before he charged another bill of large denomination, which I believed had been carried by either Williams or me. I left him at his boarding house, but returned when he was asleep and before he awakened from his drunken stupor had found $10,000 of the bank's money.

When he got righted again I promised him light punishment if he would perch on his comrades. He agreed, and it turned out that the others were ex-convicts, who had got hold of the sailor while ashore and led him into the robbery. All the money except a few hundred dollars was recovered, and I captured a reward of $3,000. As soon as I had received it, I left the service of the bank and do not intend to go back as messenger to that or any other institution. Their methods of exchanging funds I consider out of date and very dangerous. And I have no desire ever again to expose myself to the temptation offered to robbers. Since my retirement my wife says the reason from worry about me is doubtful.

BRAVERY AND COURAGE

Particular Weakness of Two Men and Its Explanation.

Years of observation upon brain diseases (the brain is my medical specialty) have given me many illustrations showing that faculties which we have long considered a part of the soul are simply the result of cerebral mechanical contrivances. The instances of Eben Roach and Chauncey Drew, patients of mine, make a case in point.

Eben Roach was accounted the most fearless young fellow in his village. His early associates to this day remember the thrashing he gave Tim Branagan, a man of far greater weight and strength, for insulting Lucy Insley, and how Eben thereby won Lucy's love. It did not seem to make any difference to him how much danger he encountered, except that the greater the danger the greater the zest with which he faced it. He could not have long stood up under Branagan's ponderous blows. He simply cowed his antagonist by his wonderful courage.

One night when Eben was returning home after visiting his betrothed he was struck on the head from behind with a sandbag and robbed. After that he was a very different man. The first any one knew of a change in him was after it was supposed that he had entirely recovered. He and Lucy were driving home from making some purchases for the wedding outfit. The horse took fright at a locomotive and backed to the edge of a stream. Eben, white as chalk, jumped out and left Lucy to be precipitated into the water. Then when she implored him to save her from drowning he walked along the bank, following her as she floated down, wringing his hands. Instead of jumping in after her, Chauncey Drew, a young lawyer, who was passing, plunged in and pulled the girl out.

Lucy declared that it would be folly to tie herself for life to a man who was incapable of protecting her. She was at a loss to understand the change in Eben, for at that time no one realized that the sandbagging had anything to do with it. Reluctantly she broke off with him, and he, crushed at his want of courage, left the town. Chauncey Drew after the episode of saving Lucy made frequent visits to her. She had given her heart to Eben, and now that he had proved unworthy for a husband she could not easily turn over the love she had borne him to another. However, Drew was a fine young man, a good match, and Lucy accepted him.

Drew was a very hard worker. He had often been told by his physician that he must take more rest or he would break down. After a prolonged case in court, which worried him greatly and finally went against him, he did break down. His nerves were unstrung.

Meanwhile Eben Roach wandered from one place to another, accomplishing nothing. It seemed impossible for him to get up sufficient nerve or interest to carry anything through. One day while he was passing a house that was being built a brick fell and struck him on the head. He was taken to a hospital, where it was discovered that his skull had been fractured. It was rebrained, and he recovered.

Eben had been discharged from the hospital about a week when he heard that his old sweetheart was betrothed to Chauncey Drew. The scene of Lucy floating in the water, Chauncey plunging in and saving her while he (Eben) stood wringing his hands, came up before him, and he could not understand how he could have shown such cowardice. The more he thought about it and brooded over Chauncey taking his place the more irritated he became. Finally he determined to go back to Lucy and make an effort to redeem himself. Chauncey had recovered his health. At least it was supposed he had, though there had been a strain on his system the effect of which had not passed off. One day while he was sitting with Lucy who should walk in but Eben!

"I have lost your love and you by failing to act in an emergency. I cannot today understand my cowardice on that occasion. Give me a chance to show that I am at least not inferior to other men. Then, if you desire it, I will give you up to this man who has come between us."

Lucy sat mute, looking first at Eben, then at Chauncey.

"It is all over between you and Lucy," said the latter. "You have no right after your cowardly desertion of her when her life was in danger to come back here to interfere with her happiness."

"We will prove," said Eben resolutely, "which is the braver man. Take this," handing him a revolver. "I will stand against the wall. Fire six shots as near my body as you like!" "I will do no such thing," said Chauncey, trembling.

"Then leave the room or I will!" Tossing aside his weapon, he advanced with clinched fists upon Chauncey. Eben's will power had been restored, while that of Chauncey was still impaired. Retreating to a corner, the latter hid himself behind a sofa.

"Leave the house, both of you," said Lucy. "You have both proved your cowardice, and I will marry neither."

Lucy Insley is an old maid. Recently I met her and learned of her past relation to my two patients. I tried to convince her that their bravery and cowardice were purely mechanical of facts, but made no impression upon her. She will never marry.

LITTLE NELL WAS ORIGINAL

DeQuincey's "Our Lady of Tears" Did Not Suggest the Character to Dickens.

It is remarked of Charles Dickens that no modern writer was less open to the charge of having received suggestions from the characters and plots of his novels from others than was he, and this for the reason that his plots and characters were chosen, not from books, but from people and incidents in the living world about him. Some time ago, however, an English author thought that he had found in DeQuincey's essay, "Our Lady of Tears," the suggestion for the beautiful pathos of Little Nell, in "The Old Curiosity Shop." A little investigation, however, showed that DeQuincey's essay was published in 1845, while "The Old Curiosity Shop" was published five years before. The extract here given from DeQuincey's essay is interesting:

"The eldest of the three sisters is named Mater Lachrymarum, our Lady of Tears. The sister it is that carries keys more than papal at her girdle, which open every cottage and every palace. She, to my knowledge, sat all last summer by the bedside of the blind beggar, him that so often and so gladly I talked with, whose pious daughter, eight years old, with the sunny countenance, resisted the temptations of play and village mirth, to travel all day long on dusty roads with her afflicted father. For this did God send her a great reward. In the springtime of the year, and whilst yet her own spring was budding, he called her to himself. But her blind father mourns for ever over her; still he dreams at midnight that the little guiding hand is locked within his own, and still he awakens to a darkness that is now within a second and deeper darkness."

HIS RECOVERY WAS SUDDEN

Passes to the Ball Game Worked a Speedy Cure of Mr. Jackson's Ailments.

Dan Lane, the well-known stock broker, and also a director of the Armory club, was commenting on the actions of a fighter in some nearby town. The fighter in question had apparently been all in up to the last round, when he came back and put out his man.

"What do you make of it?" asked the friend.

"It's like a friend of mine named Jackson," replied Mr. Lane. "Jackson's wife had a habit of thinking up little odd jobs for him to do on his day off, so he concocted a scheme by which he should be sick on his day of rest."

"Everything went well until after dinner and he was allowed to stay in bed. Early in the afternoon his wife entered the room and asked him if he didn't feel a little better."

"No," he answered, "I'm a sick man; too sick to go puttering around the house, putting on screen doors and other such things."

"It isn't that, dear," she replied, "but Jones is out here with two passes for the ball game."

"I, er, I am, er, I am feeling a little better," he said, getting out of bed.—Boston Traveler.

Tinfluenza.

The tin had crumbled in a gray dust, but the plumber was not in the least nonplused.

"It caught cold," he said. "That's all. Tin is very liable to catch cold if it gets in a temperature under 60 degrees. As a rule it recovers, but a tin cold often turns to influenza, and then the case is hopeless. Nothing can be done. The tin loses its luster, decays, and finally crumbles to a gray powder like this here."

"These tin colds are contagious. A tin dipper will give a cold to a saucepan, and a tin cup has been known to contaminate an organ pipe."

"Only pure tin catches cold. For that reason, when tin is to occupy an exposed position or to encounter a low temperature, we alloy it with lead. Only alloyed tin is free from tinfluenza."

Temperatures of Volcanoes.

Scientists have recently secured an accurate measurement of the temperature of boiling lava in a crater. The experiment was a very dangerous one, and it was considered a triumph of precaution no lives were sacrificed in making the test.

The crater of Kilauea in Hawaii was selected for examination. The work progressed very slowly. For a long time it was impossible to obtain results, but after several thermometers had been destroyed a pyrometer was substituted to advantage. The temperature recorded was 1,010 degrees centigrade, which is the same as 1,850 degrees Fahrenheit. Iron is still unmelted at this heat, but gold, silver and copper become a molten mass at a lower temperature.—Harper's Weekly.

Practically Immune.

Curacao, the most important of the Dutch West Indies, is without fire insurance and a fire department, though the island has a population of over 60,000. The buildings in the town are all of stone, hence this happy condition of affairs. Recently the first sawmill was installed, being furnished by an American firm. "It is hoped," says a consular report, "that this will not increase the erection of wooden buildings and necessitate insurance and a fire department."

Helpless As A Baby

Valley Heights, Va. Mrs. Jennie B. Kirt v. in a letter from this place, says: "I was sick in bed for nine months, with womanly troubles. I was so weak and helpless, at times, that I could not raise my head off the pillow. I commenced to take Cardui, and I saw it was helping me. At once. Now I work all day." As a tonic, for weak women, nothing has been found, for fifty years, that would take the place of Cardui. It will surely do you good. Cardui is prepared from vegetable ingredients, and has a specific, curative effect on the womanly organs. Try a bottle today. At your druggist's.

PARADISE FOR THE ACTOR

Australia Is the Place Where the People Make Real Gifts to Stage Favorites.

The actor, bronzed from a long sea voyage, was praising Australia, whence he had just returned.

"Australia's the place!" he cried enthusiastically. "If a pretty actress makes a hit over there, the warm-hearted Australians aren't content with passing flowers over the footlights to her. No, no. They pass her a box of gloves, a dozen pairs of silk stockings, a turkey, a fur muff, or a case of wine. Why, in Milparinka my wife got passed a Callot dress, a Lewis hat and ten pounds of writing paper."

"As for me—"

The actor made a great gesture of arm and shoulder to indicate modesty.

"As for me," he said, "I don't want to brag. I was never one to boast. At the same time, this I will say. No jeune premier ever made the hit I did in Parabetta, Quirindi and the other one-night stands. Do you see these pants? Passed up to me by a distinguished society matron of Murrumburrah. How do you like this shirt? It's one of a half dozen that I got from a Mudgee girl. And this fur-lined coat, my boy, is the real thing—none of your cheap and natty imitations—but real rat—genuine Australian rat. I thought I'd drop when a Gulgong usher passed it over the footlights with the compliments of the Gulgong Bachelor Girls' Social."

STRANGE SPREAD OF RUMOR

It Is So Mysterious That Greeks and Romans Made of It a Deity.

The phenomena of Rumor—its mysterious origin and marvelous spread—so impressed the ancient Greeks that they made of it a deity, Phoebe, to whom altars were raised. This deity, however, was not so completely personified as the later Roman Fama, but considered rather as a divine voice—the Vox Del, as Grote puts it, passing into the Vox Populi. The classic case is the news of the Greek victory over the Persians at Plataea, in Boeotia, which Phoebe was said to have communicated to the Greeks as they went into action at Mycale on the other side of the Aegean, a few hours later, although there was no telegraphy in B. C. 479. Grote compares Michelet's account of the storming of the Bastille, which more than once emphasizes the fact that nobody proposed it; the whole populace seemed simultaneously inspired.

Wife Who Nags.

The worst thing that the bad fairy could wish upon a man is a nagging, fault-finding wife. The most savory of the dishes prepared by her hand tastes flat and stale if served up with the sauce of her complaints, and the coziest of homes is a place of unrest if it is the storehouse of her recriminations. Even if there is just cause for jealousy, nagging is an aggravation rather than a cure.

It breeds the spirit of antagonism and the case of the injured party is hurt rather than helped.

The only safe cure for straying affections is to make oneself so attractive, so agreeable, that the desired love and attention is irresistibly held to its original moorings. Sometimes sudden evidence of indifference awakes the errant one to the fact that the straying may be mutual. Sometimes renewed outbursts of affection, of care and interest, is the tonic of weakened ardor. Sometimes splendid results are accomplished by wearing smart and becoming clothes and brushing up the wits and vivacity.

Swift's Joke on Partridge.

Partridge, the almanac maker, who taught Old Moore his business, will be remembered as the victim of an extraordinary practical joke played on him by Dean Swift.

Against Partridge's almanac for 1708 the dean published a rival almanac, predicting Partridge's death on March 29, about 11 at night, of a raging fever. And on March 30 appeared a pamphlet giving an account of the almanac maker's death with his confession that he was an impostor. This was followed by Swift's "Elegy on the Death of Mr. Partridge," which so completely deceived the Stationers company struck Partridge off the rolls and applied for an injunction against the publication of almanacs in his name.

Partridge advertised that he "was not only alive, but was also alive upon March 29." But no one believed him.—London Chronicle.

THOSE GORY STUDENT DUELS

Fresh Chicken Blood Made It Easy to Satisfy the Curiosity of Tourists.

Speaking of the bloodless duel which was "fought" last week between Professor Langevin and M. Thery, a newspaper man, a New York physician who studied at Heidelberg, said: "In my day early all duels, except those fought by students, were of the same kind, and just because these were the 'real thing' every American tourist as he came to the old town wanted to see an encounter. 'If you had been here yesterday,' the hotel porter would tell them, 'you might have seen one.' Then he would tell the seeker after scenes of gore: 'Go to the Hirschgasse meeting place tomorrow and you may get a glimpse of a duel.'"

"Bright and early next morning Mr. Tourist and his family went to the place, only to find that they were just too late. The keeper of the place took them to the room where the duel had been fought, and even showed them drops of fresh blood on the zinc floor. Then the party went away satisfied, the keeper got his tip, the coachman got his fee, the hotel porter received his rake-off and the man in charge of the Hirschgasse dueling place sprinkled fresh chicken blood on the zinc floor to be in time for the next party."—New York Tribune.

PIG ATE UP HIS LEDGERS

How Poor Pat, the Australian Saloon Keeper, Lost All His Standing Accounts.

In a small town in Queensland, Australia, an Irishman kept a dinky saloon where the boys would occasionally congregate for a round or two of jollity. There were those among us cattleman who would sometimes be short of change and would tell Pat to charge up the bill. Often our accounts with him would run for months.

One day two of us went to the saloon, just after having completed a big sale, and we thought we'd square up accounts with the trustful landlord. Informing Pat of our intention, he went into a back room as usual to figure up our standing. In a minute he returned, moaning pitifully, wringing his hands and cursing the fates.

"Me ledgers is all et up," he wailed. "Begorra, I haven't a bit of an account left. The bloody pig has ruined me, so he has."

EAT SEAWEED—AFTER WHILE.

America possesses an association to promote the consumption of seaweed as food. The members maintain that in about twenty years' time the failure of the production of wheat to keep pace with the increase of the world's population will bring us in danger of starvation. They propose to redress the balance of the land by calling into economic existence the sea. It is said that in the Sargasso sea alone sufficient nutritious vegetation flourishes and decays to support all the inhabitants of the United States if it were harvested. Not long ago the association held a banquet at which seaweed was served in all fashions, and the guests thoroughly enjoyed the fare.

IGNORANT PRISONER.

The attorney for the defense: "You see, your honor, my client is a foreigner, who can't speak a word of English. He doesn't understand our laws. He didn't know it was wrong to carry a revolver!"

"Two revolvers and a dirk," corrected the judge.

"Yes. And so, in view of his ignorance, both of our customs and our language, I ask that he be discharged."

"Can't do it," said his honor. "But I'll let him off with a fine of $2."

The ignorant one, across the table to his lawyer, and jerking his thumb toward the judge: "I'll get him some dark night for that!"

IT MAY BE.

"Why do they call it 'leap year'?" "I think it must be because the available bachelors are so likely to leap like scared fawns whenever an eager-looking maiden is seen approaching."

PERVERSEITY.

"Why are the German cures called something-or-other 'bad'?" "Because they're supposed to be good."

LAST DAY

The annual cleaning up of the city is in progress and hundreds of loads of trash and refuse are being taken to the fill at the Second street bridge. It is expected that this fill will be practically completed on one side by tonight. The ladies of the Civic League are pushing the work with zeal and enthusiasm and eight wagons are kept busy.

Selling Real Estate.

J. F. Ellis has sold for G. W. Shadoin a house and 3 lots on Broad street.

TOBACCO.

Although the bulk of the tobacco crop of 1911 has been delivered receipts this week have been good, but very little of the weed now remains in the barn and a few more days of favorable weather will see all of the weed on the market. Loose floor sales were good this week, with prices of the past few weeks prevailing.

LOWER GAS

Announced By General Manager
Toland of The New Company.

Mr. Edward Dale Toland, Jr., general manager of the Kentucky Public Service Co., which now owns the local gas and electric plants, was in the city and announces a general reduction in the cost of gas to take effect May 1st. Prices heretofore have been $2 for illuminating purposes, $1.25 for fuel and $1.50 where both were used. Under the new schedule there will be one price for all purposes, $1.40 with 15 cents off if paid in ten days from the first of the month.

Farm Sold.

J. F. Ellis has sold for J. E. Nunley a farm near Concord.

THE first gift silk stockings on record were presented in 1600 to Queen Elizabeth, by William Lee, the inventor of the stocking loom. They were the first silk stockings ever made, and it probably took the inventor a week to make them.

Today there are thousands of silk stockings offered for sale that are the result of only a few minutes of labor. You had best beware of the large majority of silk stockings offered for sale.

Cheating has kept pace with progress. 12 ounces of silk have been loaded to weigh 32 ounces, and then knitted into stockings.

Anderson's guaranteed silk stockings for men and women are absolutely pure silk thread, and to safeguard you we give both the Anderson's and the factory guarantee:—

"If these hose do not give the ultimate of service and satisfaction, if they do not wear as long as they should, according to your own opinion, return them at any time within three months from the date of the purchase, and we will refund the money or exchange them for perfect stockings."

This guarantee applies only when you buy 4 pairs at once. The prices are, men's half hose, 50c per pair; ladies' hose 75c per pair, all colors.

MAIL ORDERS Filled promptly---4 pairs Men's for $2.00; 4 pairs Ladies' for $3.00. Sent postpaid.

Yours for hosiery satisfaction,
